Carb flea market with DWP - grand fun - SRP purchases:

12 - blue Mason jar - no quart size - $1.50

1 - metal kitchen cabinet - no yard high; about 18" x 24"; a large drawer on top + 2 shelves below; very strong & clean } $5.00

3 - early 20th century water goblets - $3.00 perfect condition

1 - very tall pink depression wine goblet - perfect condition - $2.50

1 - small "juice glass" - three or four parallel bands of bright color - } $4.35 DWP admires it - & will give it to him as a present @ week-end

- Meat loaf dinner at Golf Course with HLRP/WSP

- DWP purchased a large quantity of studio photographs at the flea market and after luncheon he & I looked at them carefully.

- Returned to Elkdale & cleaned my new "flea market" treasures; DWP came over at about 7 PM & brought with him a mattress from the house for my new loft bed; we had tea & I installed the mattress

- 12:30 A.M. - I got up out of bed & removed the new - - and completely unsatisfactory - -

"new" mattress and re-installed the old. Returned to the new mattress to the Golf Course on Monday morning on my way to Simpson.

10-12 - Huckleberrying with John Klimkiewicz in Simpson - picked six quarts

1-8 P.M. - BBC - preparation of "final copy" of CHS+M, sec.
Newsletter, Volume I, Number 5 (August 25, 1985)

9-12 A.M. - pasting down & final proofing of CHS+M Newsletter
- done at the market top desk at Elkdale

My annual huckleberrying sortie with John K. -

What a genteel thing to do, surtout on a Monday morning. For some curious reason, whenever I am berry picking I always have the feeling / sensation that I am participating / performing in a play by Chekhov or Ibsen. I love the feeling.

Perhaps when Holly is in town this coming weekend she & DWP would like to go huckleberrying? I will ask the question & see what they say.

Dear Robert,

Just to make certain you know that an Indian never forgets, I am putting a check in your mailbox.

We were pleased you and Donald were able to get in, for we know you are both busy young men.

Sincerely
Edith

The hour that I have devoted to the production of I, 5 of the CHS+M Newsletter! Such a labor of love. This issue is a particularly important one because,
in many respects, it
is an annual report.
I am feeling very good about the Newsletter. I am especially pleased to have my Memorial Day speech in circulation."
